CHOOSING JARS - "It seemed that the same children were always volunteering to give talks or scripture and prayer in opening and closing exercises, and we wanted everyone to have the opportunity to do this. We labeled three jars, 1) Talks 2) Scripture and Prayer 3) Reverence Child. We then put each child's name on three Tongue Depressors (which we decorated with red, yellow, and green curling ribbon to help keep them straight) The sticks went into the three jars, and during opening or closing exercises we would pull out the sticks for the following week. When the jars were empty, we knew that everyone had been offered the chance to participate, and we put all the sticks back in again." SUSIE, BELLEVUE, WASHINGTON
