

POSTCARDS

Written by Publisher

Postcards seem to be fair game for family members to read so any praise or encouragement gets read by the whole family. Kids love mail. When I was Primary President I used to try to write one or two positive postcards a week as well as letting children who weren't there know they were missed."