

"LIGHTS OUT PROGRAM"

Written by Publisher

is to try to call that child before Sunday evening to let the child know she/he was missed. The teacher is to report to her corresponding Primary Presidency member before her "lights are turned out" Sunday evening. This way the presidency of a large Primary is aware of who is not at Primary on a continuing basis. The children who are contacted feel that they matter. Also, by assigning class members, depending on the age, they can feel some responsibility for their peers also."