

INTERVIEWS

Written by Publisher

INTERVIEWS - "When a child turns eight I set up an appointment to visit them and one or both of their parents in their home. I bring the gospel in action pendant and the goal card. I show them the award and explain what types of goals they need to set. I usually try to get them to set at least one goal that day. I also give them a coupon for an ice cream cone at their final interview when they have completed all their goals and learn the Articles of Faith. I then try to have interviews with each child every six months to see how they are progressing. At each interview I get them to set another goal. When they have accomplished all their goals and know the Articles of Faith I bring an ice cream cone to their final interview and we discuss what they have learned from their goal setting experiences. It makes the children feel special to have the one on one interviews."